REDS GIVE WARNING TO WEST

LONDON (P) - Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov warned Friday night that serious consequences may result in the Middle East if the West tries to break Egypt's grip on the Suez Canal.

The 22-nation London conference on Suez is sending a five-nation committee to propose international control of the canal to Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Australia's Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, committee chairman, called at the Egyptian Embassy Friday night with an invitation for Nasser to meet the group as soon as possible.

He said he gave the invitation to Ambassador Sami Abul Fetouh, who promised to deliver it at once. Addressing a news conference at the Soviet Embassy, Shepilov said: "It would be wrong to underestimate the gravity of the situation that might arise as a result of the activity of quarters in the United States, Britain and France to seek to have the problem settled from positions of strength." He charged that military preparations during the Suez crisis were "flagrant violation of the United Nations Charter."

U.N. Fires Russ Employe; Sends Him Home Costs At

Espionage Attempt Is Charged

... U.S. Complains

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) - Viktor Ivanovich Petrov, a Russian, has been fired by the U.N. and sent home for trying to get secret information on U.S. military aircraft from an American.

This was disclosed Friday in official announcements at the U.N. and in Washington. It was the third time in U.N. history that a Soviet national has lost his job at the U.N. because of attempted espionage.

Petrov, 31, reportedly left for Russia Thursday with his wife Valentina and young son Alexei. He had held an $3,000-a-year iob in the Russian translating section of the U.N. secretariat since

The dismissal came quickly after James J. Wadsworth, Deputy U.S. delegate to the U.N., took Dorchester information on Petrov to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Petrov lived at 110 West 96th St., Manhattan. He was also a member of the summer colony of Russians at Rye Beach in Rye,

In Washington, Asst. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins, head of the internal security division of the Department of Justice, said Petrov tried to get from an employe of a U.S. aviation corporation classified national defense information relating to U.S. military aircraft. The department did not identify the company or the employe. Tompkins said:

"Petrov originally contacted the employe as a result of an advertisement which the employe had placed in a metropolitan newspaper soliciting part-time drafting work. > It was an error at the outset when the federal administration sought to transfer the load to the localities' private banks. The presumption that they were ready and able to take over the load overlooked the fact that such institutions have always been willing and able to assume the proper load of a bank, but that there were risks that their charter responsibilities and general community welfare did not justify. The federal delegation of function was a mixed blessing. Now it is a more comfortable arrangement that takes the federal government back into a risk field where it always belonged.

Now after all this time Shigemitsu reports that the Russians have remained as intractible as ever and if there was any reversal of naked force negotiation it hasn't been apparent in his dealings with Soviet Minister Dmitri Shepilov. Air Collisions

From The St. Louis Post Dispatch

A Cornell University research team has gone to the heart of the aviation safety problem with just two points.

One is the "critical" need for complete air traffic control. Air traffic control is certainly not complete now, as last June's tragic Grand Canyon collision proved. In that case, ground control points knew a half-hour in advance of the collision that the two airliners were heading toward the same point.

Nothing was done about it because, a Civil Aeronautics Board official said, ground control affected only federally-prescribed airlanes. In short, if a plane is off these narrow highways of the air, it cannot depend on traffic control

Secondly, the survey of the Daniel and Florveals appalling inertia and lack of research in this field. The cost of enlarging traffic control and developing new safety devices may be enormous. But the growth of air traffic is equally enormous and "near-misses" in the airlines are "being reported daily."

In the days when most churches stressed soulwinning and held revivals more frequently than they do today and when Wednesday night prayer-meetings were more numerous and better attended, this old gospel hymn was a general favorite.

Revival audiences liked it because of its comfortgiving message. Revival leaders invariably chose it at singing time because of its swinging tune and the interesting form of its stanzas. Song directors used to divide their audiences into two parts. The first group sang the opening line: "There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus", and the second division would reply: "No, not one. No, not one". And so on through the Former United States Sen. Eva Bowring of Merriman represented Nebraska on the subcommittee drafting the agricultural plank. As it finally owerged it reflected to a very consideruble extent views which she had previously expressed. Former Gay. Bob Crosby, who served on the foreign policy subcommittee, said the Republican plank offered a sound, realistic apareach to farm distress.

and timely service. Its function is to defend the underfinanced farmer from the vitiating necessity of trying to succeed with not enough to do with. It has taken the risk of getting such a one in business right and fully. And the record shows surprisingly few instances where the risk is ultimately misplaced.

It was an error at the outset when the federal administration sought to transfer the load to the localities' private banks. The presumption that they were ready and able to take over the load overlooked the fact that such institutions have always been willing and able to assume the proper load of a bank, but that there were risks that their charter responsibilities and general community welfare did not justify. The federal delegation of function was a mixed blessing. Now it is a more comfortable arrangement that takes the federal government back into a risk field where it always belonged.

In Suez' Light

The Suez crisis is bringing to light a host of things not related to the canal itself or to the arguments of the principle contenders.

A good example can be found in Japan. The emergence of the Suez question demanded the full attention of Russian statecraft. That provided for a long wanted revisiting of Tokyo by Japan's foreign minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, who has been in Moscow interminably trying to work out a Japanese-Russian peace treaty. Shigemitsu went to Moscow after the present Russian rulers announced an about face from Stalin policies. Included in that about face was a new look toward Japan-a concession to reason rather than force.

Now after all this time Shigemitsu reports that the Russians have remained as intractible as ever and if there was any reversal of naked force negotiation it hasn't been apparent in his dealings with Soviet Minister Dmitri Shepilov. It seems from that that the world is learning as much about Russia in this Suez business as it is learning about Egypt and its Col. Nasser.

Air Collisions

From The St. Louis Post Dispatch

A Cornell University research team has gone to the heart of the aviation safety problem with just two points.

One is the "critical" need for complete air traffic control. Air traffic control is certainly not complete now, as last June's tragic Grand Canyon collision proved. In that case, ground control points knew a half-hour in advance of the collision that the two airliners were heading toward the same point.

Nothing was done about it because, a Civil Aeronautics Board official said, ground control affected only federally-prescribed airlanes. In short, if a plane is off these narrow highways of the air, it cannot depend on traffic control

Secondly, the survey of the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center reveals appalling inertia and lack of research in this field. The cost of enlarging traffic control and developing new safety devices may be enormous. But the growth of air traffic is equally enormous and "near-misses" in the airlines are "being reported daily."

Adlai Campaign To Be Trumanless

WASHINGTON - Ex-President Truman is taking another trip abroad, and taking it right at the beginning of the election campaign. He has booked passage to Australia on Pan American Airways September 18. Unless the politicos persuade him to change his mind, this will be his answer to the question of whether or not he will campaign for Adlai Steven-

In brief, Mr. Truman, who was not entirely appreciated by Stevenson when he went whistle-stopping in 1952, has now decided to go fishing in Australia in 1956.

Only recently Truman returned from one trip abroad, the first he ever made as a private citizen. But now he will go to Australia and Asia to see a part of the world where his foreign aid policies played an important role in fighting Communism.

Apparently Mr. Truman has reversed his Chicago statement that what Adlai Stevenson needs is help "from an old man from Missouri."

IKE AND ZHUKOV President Eisenhower's big secret campaign weapon, to be sprung around October, is to be a visit from Marshal Zhukov of Russia.

Coming at a time when the American public is intensely interested in peace, White House advisers are convinced the visit will have the same bombshell effect on Ike's "I shall go to Kopromise made during the 1952 campaign.

They believe that a visit from Eisenbower's old wartime buddy will arouse none of the criticism that might come from a visit by Bulganin and Khrushchev, but will receive almost unanimous approval. It will especially stamp the President as a leader who can head the United States and Russia toward permanent peace.

Democrats say their motto will be: "Stick with Ike and get stuck with Dick.". . . Even Republicans are joking about the Nixon handshake. You feel the other fellow's pulse while you shake hands with him (the other fellow is supposed to be Ike). . .Quoth ex-mayor "Last Hurrah" Curley of Boston, apropos of Averell Harriman's hope to be President: "Any candidate who comes to the convention with 96 votes and $200,000,-000 has a chance.". . . Biggest scoop of the two conventions was scored by Bill Hearst-his quote from Harry Truman that Adlai couldn't win. . . Roy Cohn, one time featured in the Army-Mc-Carthy hearings, pulled wires for Governor Harriman at Chicago. He was especially influencing Nevada votes through J. Sourwine. former counsel for Senator Eastland's witch-hunting committee. Cohn and Harriman don't agree on anything political, but Harriman dropped the investigation of Cohn's well-known violation of New York national guard's training rules. . Members of the Missouri delegation couldn't get their favorite son, Senator Stuart Symington, on the telephone for two days. They wanted to switch to Adlai instead of sticking with Symington. . . . Harry Truman has given only one political contribution so far-to Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Two of the most interested spectators at both the Chicago and San Francisco conventions were Ambassador Amaral Peixoto of Brazil and Amintore Fanfani, former Italian minister of the Interior.

Both men attended both conventions. They wanted to study the American political system at the grassroots. Both were tremendously impressed.

BOB CONSIDINE Hint Foreplanning Of Stassen Show SAN FRANCISCO - The prodigal return of Harold Stassen, after saying that Dick Nixon wouldn't make such a bad running mate after all, firms up my long-held opinion that Stassen was chosen by men close to the President to make a thorough sounding on the death of Dick Nixon's popularity. The Big Moose of a Minnesotan embarked on his mission, I'm sure, aware that he'd get no comfort from the hierarchy. He have been assured, too, he'd he welcomed back on the squad if he struck out. He did. badly. Didn't get a piece of the ball.

Quite a bit of money was sent into Stassen's Herter-for-vice President headquarters by people who honestly believed lke could find a stronger mate. During one week, more than $3,000 was received, mostly in small sums. Somebody later contributed $1,-000. Stassen's two polls used up most of the dough, it is presumed. Other expenses were office rent, a telegram campaign and stickers.

One of the true elders of the party assures me that the men behind the scenes on this sounding were Milton Eisenhawer, Lucius Clay, John J. McCley and one or two others who "wanted to be sure."

Stassen goofed on two phases of the plan. He chose Gov. Chris Herter as his man in the face of Herter's obvious reluctance. And he announced it while Eisenhower was in Panama, which was bad public relations. It drove Ike and the Pan-American meeting off the front pages.

One more goof-up might be added. Stassen had a great chance to help Nixon at the convention, when he came to the rostrum to ask the delegates to do what they were going to do all along - vote for Dick. But he never said. "oops sorry." Or, like Truman, he never scratched himself and said. "when I make a mistake, it's a beaut." P 2 X

Not to be outdone by Adlai, Ike frisked the environs of egg-headism in his ecceptance speech.

He spotted Stevenson several learned references to Carlyle and Seneca, two lead balloons Adlai attempted to float over the heads of sweating Democrats at Chicago, and counterattacked with Ib-

Ike felt he had better describe him, just in case.

"The great Norwegian, Henrik Ibsen, once wrote. 'I hold that man is in the right who is most clearly in league with the future." Republicans, accustomed to hearing only Lincoln quoted, let it go. Their attitude was "well, nobody can be perfect."

Ike's New Deal

SAN FRANCISCO - President Eisenhower undertakes to break new ground for his party in his speech of acceptance.

In the Eisenhower version, the traditional GOP-Grand Old Party -becomes the POF-Party of the Future-and Republicans accept the welfare state as a taking-off point for a drive to master the new challenges of a changing world.

The President promised the voters leadership on all sorts of pressing problems-water supply, health, peaceful uses of atomic energy, questions of urban organization and redevelopment, priority of first-class education. His challenge to those who have so insistently demanded his second term is no less direct. 'Let us quit fighting the battles of the past," he said. "Let us all turn our attention to these problems of the present and the future on which the long-term well-being of our people so urgently depends.

President Eisenbower has stolen more bases on the Democrats in the last four years than they care to have mentioned. Apparently in his campaign he will try to get home again with exactly the same technique. For his ringing words, while they are highly generalized. auggest goals which Adiai Stevenson had adopted as his own. Stevenson's job clearly will be to try to someout the Republican party, as it has been constituted. and its candidates-so many of whom are to Eisenhower's rightto a President who talks in this vein. It will not be easy. The record of the Democratic Congress which found itself consistently compelled to support the President proves that.

platforms, adopted this month with a minimum of intraparty strife, are closer to each other than they have been in 25 years. When the viewing with alarm-Democratic -and the pointing with pride-Republican-are stripped away, the actual commitments of each party bear an astonishing resemblance. In effect, Democrats are not now trying to extend the welfare state, Republicans are not now trying to dismember it. Thus, the platform platitudes flow from old forgotten, far-off things and battles long ago. The Eisenhower middle ground is left of his 1952 campaign oratory, but he is holding it, and the party which has so great a need of him has not yet dared to complain. The valid question is: With what does the President propose to build his POF? With his elderly cabinet so largely drawn from the business world? With Elsephower Republicans who in the House and lienais have never effectively challeaged their Old Guard leaders but often have had to join the Demoerats to make their majorities?

No, Not One!

There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus, No. not one! no. not one! None else could heal all our soul's diseases, No, not one! no, not one!

No friend like Him is so high and holy, No. not one! no, not one! And yet no friend is so meek and lowly, No, not one! no, not one!

There's not an hour that He is not near us, No. not one! no. not one! No night so dark but His love can cheer us. No, not one! no, not one!

Did ever saint find this friend forsake him? No, not one! no, not one! Or sinner find that He would not take him? No, not one! no, not one!

No. not one! no. not one! Will He refuse us a home in heaven? No, not one! no, not one!

Was e'er a gift like the Savior given?

Jesus knows all about our struggles, He will guide till the day is done; There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus, No, not one! no, not one!

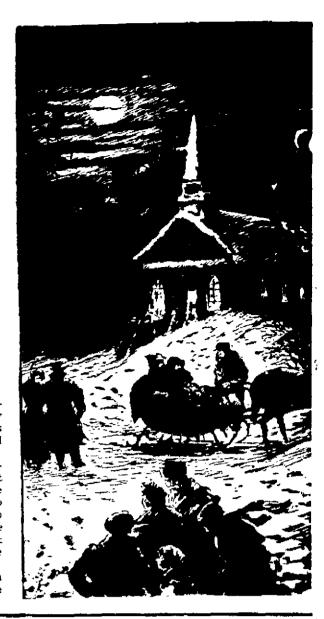

By HORACE B. POWELL

In the days when most churches stressed soulwinning and held revivals more frequently than they do today and when Wednesday night prayer-meetings were more numerous and better attended, this old gospel hymn was a general favorite.

Revival audiences liked it because of its comfortgiving message. Revival leaders invariably chose it at singing time because of its swinging tune and the interesting form of its stanzas. Song directors used to divide their audiences into two parts. The first group sang the opening line: "There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus", and the second division would reply: "No, not one. No, not one". And so on through the

A Safety Effort

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Granting that Nebraska, in the face of a nationally mounting traffic death toll, has recorded fewer fatalities so far this year than last, and also reduced its five-year average, the decrease is not what it should and could be. Each day the total either equals or is slightly under the comparable date in 1955. There it continues to hover.

Viewed on a state level-for it is granted that county and city lawenforcement agencies also are understaffed—the Nebraska State Safety Patrol needs additional manpower. It is 38 men short of the 200 officers required to serve the population of our state, according to national standards. Consider the 1954 experience when the patrolling power was increased by releasing officers from the truck weigh stations. This factor plus use of radar, etc., checked and reduced the upward trend in the traffic toll and obviously has "held the line" since then. This, however, is not enough. In 1947 the state traffic accident death toll was 332. That same year witnessed the formation of the Nebraska State Safety Council that functioned for two years only. Citizen participation through the council's efforts, combined with enforcement, had a definite impact on the death record. There were 146 fewer deaths during those two years. The mobilization of publiccitizen support, the development of traffic safety programs and public information definitely influenced the traffic pattern. ...

Nebraska can leave this "plateau" on which its traffic record now reclines. But first, as a move in that direction - a downward move - a stepped-up enforcement program and greater mobilization of public effort must be realized.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Been watchin' the conventions, like all the rest of ya'. Peace. it's great, seemed to be the theme song. We don't believe in force to secure civil rights nor to protect our citizens from foreign outrage. In fact, we advertise to all and sundry that we won't fight. One of our airplanes on a peaceful mission and over neutral waters is shot down by enemy aircraft, and it doesn't raise a single bristle. If our secretary of state tells us he has to make a hostile gesture at times to enforce justice, we give him merry hell.

Just to make the absurd more ridiculous, some zealous Republican declares with great fervor that nearly all our wars have been Democratic wars, and thus the Democrats are the war party. Several County School Districts To Review Tax Levy Requests

Star Staff Writer

Several Lancaster County school district boards will be called to appear before the county commissioners next Tuesday to review tax levy requests.

Lack of sufficient information on tax forms and some evidence of apparent excessive tax levy requests were given as the reasons for the review.

Nebraska law requires certificates of tax needs listing the school district's actual expenses last year; its estimated expenses for the coming year; miscellaneous funds received last year and estimated for the next year; district cash balance on hand June 30; county treasurer's cash balance on hand June 30, and operating reserve needed to keep on a cash basis.

County commissioners allow districts a reserve fund totalling 50

Commissioner Del Lienemann erly filled out their tax forms and Thompson proposal. he emphasized the board must have this information before it can determine a fair tax levy. He said "personally liable for levying in excess of school needs."

The matter of excessive tax requests came to light last Tuesday when the board reviewed districts where two railroads had filed objections to tax requests.

Disputed Inter-State Highway Routes

The recent dispute over the proposed route of the Inter-State Highway through Nebraska resulted in a question of whether the super highway should be routed near or south of North Platte.

The opposing routes are shown above in dotted and solid lines. Sens. Kathleen Foote of Axtell and Don Thompson of McCook per cent of the previous year's; recommended to State Highway Engineer L. N. Ress their route, shown by dotted line, would serve the state better and would be 25 miles shorter.

The route tentatively set down by Ress, shown in solid dark line, cuts through North Platte which is by-passed in the Foote-Thompson proposal.

The dispute was all but settled by Ress this week when he quoted the 1947 law, passed by Congress, which required that check-points be established at that time for the location of the road. North Platte, Omaha and Lincoln were the three main points.

Because this cannot be changed, Ress said, the Inter-State Highway must go through North Platte. Congress says so, he added. Also, the road must go as close as possible to the most populous cities of the state.

The two senators made their proposal following a meeting of the South Platte United Chambers of Commerce which protested the Highway Department's plan.

elongated bodices and slim skirts were accented at the hipline by sashes of crushed taffeta draped at the back into pouf bustles, and they carried cascades of garnet sweetheart roses tufted with pink net. Lighting the candles were Miss Mary Lynn Safford and Miss Suzanne Swingle.

Serving Mr. Doty as best man was Robert S. Davey, and seating the guests were James Pickett, brother of the bride, and James Tiernan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Harrison Walters of Indianapolis, Ind., appeared in an Elizabethan gown of crisp silk in antique white. A narrow band of minutely-pleated silk contoured the bateau decolletage of the long-sleeved bodice, which was snugly closed at the back by a row of tiny, silk-covered buttons. The pleated motif was repeated in a scalloped hip-yoke beneath which the skirt was shirred into extreme fullness and extended into a train. A plateau of silk, edged with Rosepoint lace, held her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a pinnacle arrangement of stephanotis and white phaleanopsis orchids.

THE BIG CHANGE August 24, 1956

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC . . .

For more than 32 years Radio Station KFAB has delivered a quality radio product, fulfilling the desires and needs of the listeners in its wide area. The many national and local awards presented to KFAB sufficiently substantiate that statement.

Over those 32 years many changes have been made in radio broadcasting . . . mechanical changes and changes in programming. You, the Public, are the direct cause of new trends in programming. They occur as your tastes in entertainment change.

As radio station operators, we have witnessed, in the past two years, an almost unbelievable upsurge in the use of radio sets. More sets are being used today than ever before. You have shown us what a companion radio is and will always be to you.

Your listening habits have changed with your new interest in radio and we at KFAB have tried to accurately analyze what you want and need. We think we have the answer and are prepared to bring it to you. Beginning next Monday, August 27th, you will hear a refreshing, a changed KFAB . . . a new sound in radio. The changed KFAB is designed to be your home companion . . . your traveling companion.

We pledge to you, the Public, more good music and entertainment features to the hour - with less interruption - than you have received anywhere. With the largest staff of reporters in the area, we pledge more local and regional news coverage - faster, more accurate coverage than you can receive anywhere else.

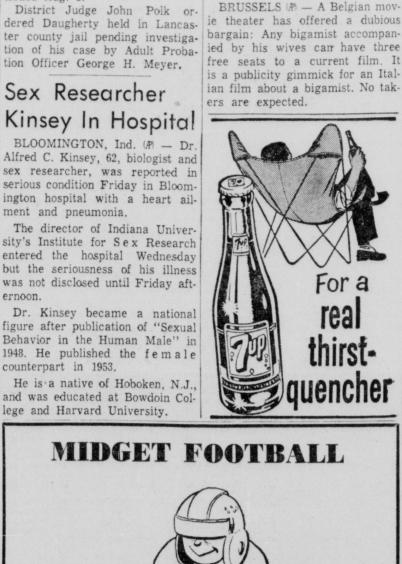

When you tune in the new sound early next Monday morning, we are sure you will have found a real friend and companion for all day. We are certain you will hear the difference - certain you will like what you hear.

We invite you to watch for the colorful announcement in Sunday's newspaper. Meanwhile, keep your eye on the sky and your ear on KFAB. There are a lot of pleasant surprises in store for you.

Sincerely,

LYELL BREMSER General Manager
